A motorcycle kickstand is a device used to support a motorcycle to maintain balance when parked. It is located on the bottom of the motorcycle and is usually attached to the body frame. When the motorcycle is parked, the footrest can easily support the motorcycle in a vertical position to avoid tipping and damage. Motorcycle pedals are usually located on both sides of the body for the rider to place their feet to maintain a stable riding posture. The main function of motorcycle pedals is to provide support and comfort to the rider's feet. They help riders maintain a stable riding position and reduce fatigue during long rides. The footrests can be adjusted according to the rider's needs to accommodate different leg lengths and riding positions.
