The motorcycle front fender is a component located at the front of a motorcycle, above the front wheel. It is designed to provide protection and coverage for the front wheel, as well as to prevent debris, water, and other road elements from being thrown up towards the rider or other parts of the motorcycle.

Front fenders are typically made of durable materials such as plastic, depending on the motorcycle's design and intended use. They are shaped to follow the contour of the front wheel and are securely attached to the motorcycle's fork or front suspension.
