Motorcycle headlight bulb is a type of bulb specifically designed for use in the headlight assembly of a motorcycle. The headlight plays a crucial role in providing illumination for the rider and improving visibility on the road, especially during low-light conditions or at night.

B35 bulbs are the most common type of headlight bulbs found in motorcycles. They use a tungsten filament enclosed in a halogen gas-filled chamber to produce light. Halogen bulbs are relatively affordable and provide a warm white light output. They are available in various wattages and offer a good balance between brightness and energy consumption.
