The side cover on a motorcycle refers to the protective panel or fairing that covers the sides of the motorcycle's frame and engine. It is typically made of plastic and is designed to enhance the aesthetic appearance of the motorcycle while providing protection and functionality.

The main purpose of a motorcycle side cover is to enclose and protect various components located on the sides of the motorcycle, such as the air filter, battery, wiring harnesses, and sometimes the fuel tank or storage compartments. Side covers also contribute to the streamlined look of the motorcycle and can help improve aerodynamics.
