The motorcycle handle lever, also known as a motorcycle handlebar lever or motorcycle control lever, is a critical component of a motorcycle's control system. It is typically located on the handlebars and is used by the rider to operate various controls of the motorcycle, such as the clutch, front brake.

Clutch Lever: The clutch lever is usually positioned on the left side of the handlebars. It is used to engage and disengage the clutch, allowing the rider to change gears smoothly.

Brake Lever: The brake lever is typically found on the right side of the handlebars. It operates the front brake, which is responsible for a significant portion of the motorcycle's braking power. By squeezing the lever, the rider can activate the front brake and slow down or stop the motorcycle.
