WAY-C

The motorcycle exhaust pipe is a pipe system through which the engine emits exhaust gas. It plays the role of discharging exhaust gas, improving engine performance and regulating emission noise.

Motorcycle muffler cover, also known as a muffler heat shield or muffler guard, is a protective covering that is often installed on the outer surface of the muffler or exhaust system of a motorcycle.

Heat Protection: The primary function of a muffler cover is to protect the rider and other nearby components from the intense heat generated by the exhaust gases passing through the muffler. The cover acts as a barrier, preventing direct contact with the hot surfaces and reducing the risk of accidental burns or heat-related damage.
