PIAGGIO tensioner, in the context of a motorcycle, usually refers to a component that helps maintain proper tension on the drive chain. The drive chain is responsible for transferring power from the pedals to the rear wheels, propelling the motorcycle forward.

The tensioner is designed to keep the drive chain at the appropriate tension, which is necessary for smooth and efficient power transmission. It prevents the chain from becoming too loose or too tight during operation, which can lead to issues such as chain skipping, excessive wear, or even chain derailment.
